

when leaving, turn off the light

Take care of the environment

An extinguished light bulb does not consume electricity, less energy means less carbon burned and CO₂ emitted into the atmosphere, for example.

Change your habits and save money

By developing the habit of turning off lights, you save money. Even small gestures like switching off unnecessary lighting will generate tangible savings in the long term.

Your choices matters

Even individual choices can lead to fundamental changes for the entire planet. Share knowledge, educate, and positive change will happen faster as a result.
